What you need to know

- Your employer cannot ask you or force you to opt out.
- If you are asked or forced to opt out, you can tell The Pensions Regulator – see www.thepensionsregulator.gov.uk
- If you change your mind, you may be able to opt back in – write to the Pensions Section at the address above if you want to do this.
- If you stay opted out your employer will normally put you back into pension saving in around three years.
- If you change job your new employer will normally put you back into pension saving straight away.
- If you have another job, your other employer might also put you into pension saving, now or in the future. This notice only opts you out of pension saving with the employer you name above. A separate notice must be filled out and given to any other employer you work for if you wish to opt out of that pension saving as well.
- If you opt out of the scheme you will not receive any benefits if you die whilst in employment. If you die whilst you are an active member of the scheme then there would be a tax free lump sum paid to your family on your death and a pension would be paid to your spouse or partner for life. If you die leaving any eligible children they would also receive a pension.
- If you opt out of the scheme and have to give up work due to illness or injury you will not be entitled to any benefits from the scheme. The scheme provides an immediate pension, subject to the scheme rules and the provision of satisfactory medical evidence, where a member has to give up work due to ill health or injury.
